No. 03-2-27985-4 SEA
COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

Plaintiff Microsoft Corporation ("Microsoft") brings this action against THE E-OFFER STORE and JOHN DOES 1-20.

I. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

1. This is an action for trespass to chattels, conversion, and for violations of the Washington Commercial Electronic Mail Act (RCW Ch. 19.190), the Washington Consumer Protection Act, and the federal Computer Fraud and Abuse Act (18 U.S.C. § 1030(a)). Microsoft seeks damages and injunctive relief to remedy defendants' unauthorized use of Microsoft's computers and computer systems to send millions of misleading and deceptive unsolicited commercial e-mail messages, or "spam," in violation of Microsoft's policies and state and federal law.

1 knowledge of those actions, provided assistance and benefited from those actions, in whole or 2 in part. Each of the defendants was the agent of each of the remaining defendants, and in 3 doing the things hereinafter alleged, was acting within the course and scope of such agency
4 and with the permission and consent of other defendants.

5 III. NATURE OF PLAINTIFF'S INTERNET E-MAIL SERVICES

6 8. Microsoft owns and operates interactive computer services that enable its 7 customers to, among other things, access the Internet and exchange electronic mail ("e-mail")
8 on the Internet. Microsoft owns and maintains computers and other equipment, including 9 specialized computers or "servers" that process e-mail messages and otherwise support its e-10 mail services. Microsoft maintains this equipment in Washington and California, among 11 other states. E-mail sent to and from Microsoft's customers is processed through and stored 12 on these computers. Microsoft is an internet service provider ("ISP"), is an "interactive 13 computer service" as defined by RCW § 19.190.010. Microsoft's computers and computer
14 systems are "protected computers" during the federal Computer Fraud and Abuse Act, 18
15 U.S.C. § 1030(e)(2).

16 9. One of Microsoft's services is "MSN Hotmail" which provides free and 17 subscription-based e-mail on the Internet through a web-based e-mail service that can be 18 accessed at www.hotmail.com. MSN Hotmail allows account-holders to exchange e-mail
19 messages with any other e-mail user who has an Internet e-mail address throughout the world.
20 MSN Hotmail has millions of registered accounts, whose users all have unique e-mail 21 addresses ending in "@hotmail.com."

22 10. Another of Microsoft's services is "MSN Internet Access" (referred to herein 23 as "MSN") which provides free and subscription-based e-mail services that can be accessed 24 on the web or via Microsoft's proprietary network. MSN allows account-holders to exchange 25 e-mail messages with any other e-mail user who has an Internet e-mail address throughout the 26

1 world. MSN has millions of registered accounts, whose users all have unique e-mail
2 addresses ending in "@msn.com."

3 IV. THE NATURE OF UNSOLICITED E-MAIL OR "SPAM"

4 11. Unsolicited commercial e-mail is often referred to as "spam." The 5 transmission of spam, a practice referred to as "spamming," by persons known as 6 "spammers," is widely condemned in the Internet community, and is of significant concern
7 and economic detriment to Microsoft and its customers.

8 12. By using the Internet to send commercial e-mail messages, spammers not only 9 obtain significant cost savings, but impose significant economic burdens on ISPs such as 10 Microsoft. Although it costs very little for a spammer to transmit innumerable e-mail 11 messages, handling the enormous volume of e-mail initiated by spammers places a 12 tremendous burden on Microsoft.

13 13. Microsoft's computers and computer systems are designed and created solely 14 for the benefit and the non-commercial personal use of its customers. The computers and 15 computer systems have finite capacity and are not designed to accommodate innumerable 16 mass mailings from spammers. Microsoft has been required to expend substantial amounts 17 for new equipment to handle the mass mailings by spammers.

18 14. Spamming also can and does result in the degradation and disruption of 19 Microsoft's computers and computer systems. Spam demands storage space and processing
20 capacity of Microsoft's computers and computer systems, making those resources unavailable 21 to serve the legitimate needs of Microsoft's customers. The diversion of these resources from 22 processing authorized e-mail impairs the normal operation of the computers and computer
23 systems. Therefore, the value of that equipment is diminished by spamming.

24 15. Spamming also has significant impact on the recipients of spam. Individuals 25 who receive spam must take the time and effort to sort through larger volumes of received e-26 mail, must attempt to distinguish spam from legitimate e-mail, and ultimately discard this

1 unsolicited material. In an effort to mislead e-mail recipients and to make it more difficult for 2 them to identify and discard these unsolicited advertisements, spammers frequently use 3 deceptive methods, such as using a false or misleading information in the e-mail headers and 4 subject lines. When a spammer uses deceptive information to disguise spam as legitimate 5 personal or business e-mail, it causes additional inconvenience and frustration to spam 6 recipients.

7 16. Spam frequently involves products or services of questionable value, or 8 materials of an adult or pornographic nature. Unsolicited advertisements for such products or 9 services, often disguised, are a particularly obtrusive form of spam and are often the subject of 10 customer complaints.

11 17. Spammers know that their bulk e-mailing practices inevitably lead to a 12 significant portion of their e-mail being undeliverable. When an e-mail message is 13 undeliverable, additional e-mail messages (“bounce-back messages”) are generated to advise 14 the sender and the ISP of this fact. Rather than have their own computer equipment burdened 15 with voluminous bounce-back messages, spammers craft their messages to direct the bounce-
16 back messages to others. Thus, a spammer who sends spam by using a MSN or MSN
17 Hotmail return address can be assured that the inevitable, innumerable bounce-back messages 18 will be returned to that address, not to the spammer’s own computer system. This adds to 19 Microsoft’s burdens, as its computers must process and store the bounce-back messages from 20 these spam mailings.

21 18. In an attempt to protect itself and its customers from spam, Microsoft has 22 expended significant resources to developing technologies and practices to prevent its 23 subscribers from sending or receiving spam. Spammers, however, continue to adopt practices
24 and technological devices to evade Microsoft’s technologies and to frustrate Microsoft’s 25 efforts.
